Americans for Citizen Voting applauds the voters in four states who passed Citizen Only Voting Amendments today. In Arkansas, Kansas, South Dakota, and West Virginia voters amended their state constitutions to require that all voters in local, state, and federal elections be citizens of the United States.

“Today’s election was about a lot of issues for a lot of people, but Citizen Only Voting was a consistent winner across the country regardless of what else or who else was on the ballot,” said Americans for Citizen Voting Chairman Paul Jacob. “Americans believe only U.S. citizens should vote in all elections and said so loud and clear.”

As of today, 25 state constitutions clearly require citizenship in order to vote. Polls are still open in Alaska where voters are deciding whether to add American citizenship as a requirement to state statute.
